

New Company Creates another Unique Link

MASON, OHIO, April 9, 2010-- Morris Energy Solutions has been officially approved as a distributor of Andersen Window. Morris Energy Solutions is already unique in their ability to offer services on both windows and doors, as well as heating, cooling and electric. Now, Morris Energy Solutions is truly the only company within the Tri-State area that solely focuses on the energy envelope of the building with geothermal, traditional HVAC, and both vinyl and wood windows within the window industry, making them even more exclusive.

Among builders and remodelers, Andersen is the most recognized brand for windows, as well as the largest window and patio door company in America. They manufacture over 7,000,000 wood windows and patio doors worldwide every year, and with the unique advantage of being a sistering company to advertising company, Focus/FGW, Morris Energy Solutions is predicted to have a profitable outcome.

“My experience with Andersen products goes back to my early days in the industry. Morris Energy Solutions is honored to be representing the most recognized brand of Windows and Patio Doors. With consumers more conscious of energy costs and the environment now more than ever, we are excited to have the complete Andersen line in our portfolio. With Carrier® and Andersen® brands together as our main suppliers, we truly have a unique marketing advantage,” says General Manager of Morris Energy Solutions, Kevin Hillebrand.

The relationship between Andersen and Morris Energy Solutions is expected to flourish, as they are both committed to the satisfaction of every customer, the conservation of energy and environmental stewardship.
